MAISONVILLE PAPER SUED FOR $50,000

Attorney Sues Editor Of A Small Sheet For Heavy Damages.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 18.—As a result of a sensational article making charges against Letcher R. Fox, prominent attorney of this city, Latt M. McLaughlin is made the defendant in a $50,000 damage suit, filed in circuit court here late Friday afternoon. McLaughlin, who opposed Ed. Morrow for the republican nomination for Governor in the last republican primary, has for the past six months been establishing a small weekly paper, known as the "Soul Awakener," his motto being: An independent paper, fighting for the right and opposing the wrong for the life of the cause.

Attorney Fox, until about a year ago, and been a republican. He joined with the democrats and last week switched back to the republican party. In a lengthy article in the Friday issue of Soul Awakener, Editor McLaughlin, in commenting on the change, says in the closing paragraph of the article.

Thus he carries death with him. One year he has been with the democratic party and went down in defeat, giving the republicans a circuit judge and district attorney. It is this district attorney that Letcher thinks he could and should have been in order that according to the dim vaporing of his benighted mind which only shows his kind and which is much bigger than his front, the office might have been filled with ability and distinction. To make up for this imaginary loss he seined around in the democratic party for a flat nomination on the county ticket the next year.

Being given to understand that he did not hold sufficient confidence and respect of the party to command a seat so exalted and that he must take a back seat in the nigger heaven in keeping with his character, he was then in a chagrined condition which enabled him to see the glitter of the golden armed Hughes machine, coming down the land crushing all honor caught beneath its ponderous weight.

McLaughlin also refers to Mr. Fox as a Shyster, and makes serious charges regarding money supposed to be in the hands of the republican county campaign chairman here. The article created much comment and the suit was filed by Mr. Fox within a short time after the paper was circulated on the streets here yesterday.

Two articles in the paper were devoted to Fox and Tom Finley, county campaign chairman for the republican party. The paper was filed as a part of the suit.

Forget your Aches

Stiff knees, aching limbs, lame back make life a burden. If you suffer from rheumatism, gout, lumbago, neuralgia, get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment, the universal remedy for pain. Easy to apply; it penetrates without rubbing and soothes the tender flesh. Cleaner and more effective than musky ointments or poultices. For strains, sprains, sore muscles or wrenched ligaments resulting from strenuous exercises, Sloan's Liniment gives quick relief. Keep it on hand for emergencies. At your Druggist, 25c.

A Joke.

REAL LIFE ROMANCE

FRANK OF FATE THAT RESULTED IN HAPPY MARRIAGE.

She Was the "Other Girl" and He the Only "Good Looker" in the Regiment Which Was Embarking for War.

The scene of the first chapter of this romance is laid in a city on the western coast, a seaport from whose harbor there sailed during the year of the Spanish-American war many transports carrying to the Philippines troops of gay and gallant soldiers, most politely generous with their brass buttons.

On one of these occasions two young girls, thirsting for adventure, fared forth, armed with a kodak. Snapshots were taken of the soldiers marching down one of the principal streets from the train to the wharf, but a sad melancholy settled down upon the pair when they were forced to admit that these men were, Oh! so ordinary looking, not nearly so handsome as some of the regiments had been.

However, to vary the dull monotony which the whole episode was gradually assuming, they amused themselves while the men were boarding the ship in endeavoring to pick out the really good-looking one. And they did—one, and one only. But he, being by that time on the upper deck, was quite unobtainable, so all the joy that could be extracted from an afternoon which had given such promise was the pleasure of waving good-by to him as the ship sailed away.

But what was their surprise when the snapshots of the marching soldiers were printed to discover that their "good-looking man" appeared in one of them. The pictures were soon pasted into a book and the incident apparently closed.

The scene of the second and closing chapter is now shifted to a town about ten years later.

One of the two girls was living in this town. She was a schoolteacher. At a social gathering she met a young man who afterward called on her.

In the course of conversation she gave the name of her former home, and the young man remarked that he had been in that city just twice, once when he embarked with his regiment bound for the Philippines and once when he was on his way back after the war.

Of course, the old book of kodak views was promptly unearthed, and the girl was not a little surprised when he greeted the picture of "the good-looking man," with the rapturous announcement that it was his old comrade, Jack —, who resided in that very town, but was at that time away on his vacation.

When he returned he would bring him around, if he might, to see the pictures, in which he was able to distinguish many of his former friends. Jack came, he saw, he conquered, with the usual happy ending. I am and was the other girl.—Chicago Tribune

Eye Protection at Movies.

Physicians are constantly advising patrons of the movies to protect their eyes. A writer in the Journal of the American Medical Association tells how it may be done.

"The progress made in the character of subjects presented in the movies today makes it desirable for all inquiring people to at least attend occasionally," he says. "Annoying after-effects on the eyes of many prevent them from enjoying the social diversion, and often the educational advantages, thus derived. The great majority of those who suffer from eye strain after watching moving pictures can find much, if not complete, relief in perfectly fitted glasses. The picture may not be quite so sharp, but this is more than compensated for by the increased comfort.

"For those with very sensitive eyes a colored glass, either amber, yellowish green or amethyst, may be necessary to give complete relief. There have been put on the market recently several varieties of colored glass, each of which has some advantages, so that some suitable color can usually be secured. A subdued light in the theater is much less irritating than when the only light visible comes from the screen. It is also advisable to avoid sitting in a place where it is necessary to look upward, as the additional strain becomes very tiresome, and frequently leaves a headache."

Freeze Feet in Midsummer.

How 150 Italian infantrymen were invalidated by freezing their feet in midsummer was told by a passenger arriving at New York on the French liner La Touraine.

The men were members of a battalion of Alpine infantry, and had gone to a point far above the snow line in an attempt to surprise an Austrian force that in no other manner could be ousted from its position. They had been carefully drilled in walking on all fours and acting the parts of goats and sheep.

Two days after leaving camp remnants of the command began to return. They failed in their undertaking because of a terrific storm and because sharp pieces of ice tore their flannel leggings and exposed their feet.

The Reason.

"Odd, isn't it, that age is a recommendation in wine and a drawback in women?"

"Not at all. You can put it down in the one, but you have to put up with it in the other."
